
Congressmen Praise Advantages of San Pedro as Submarine Base.

REPORT MADE BY FULL COMMITTEE

Formal Recommendations Are Confirmed.

Los Angeles Harbor Base Best in Southland.

Expenditure of Not More than $4,000,000 Favored.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The full membership of the Congressional Joint Committee created to select the Pacific Coast naval base today unanimously recommended Alameda, on San Francisco Bay, as the general best naval base. Other bases recommended were San Diego and San Pedro Bay, for aviation, and San Pedro for a submarine base.

The submarine base at San Pedro, Cal., the committee recommended should be established at a cost not exceeding $4,000,000.

Referring to the Camp Kearny site, near San Diego, Cal., the committee's report said:

ADVANTAGES OF SITE.
"In view of the advantages of this site, which cannot be established at any other point in this section, the committee recommends that it be selected as a lighter-than-air aviation base."

Outlining the San Francisco Bay project, the committee said:

"The Joint Committee recommends that the site offered by the city of Alameda be selected, with a view to the development thereof of a naval base.

"The navy yard at Mare Island is an excellent navy yard, well equipped and efficient, and should be continued in its present activities as a navy yard for construction and repair purposes as differentiated from an aviation and supply base, and the Navy base to be established at Alameda should, for the present, be limited to an operating and supply base."

No specifications were made by the committee fixing the amount of money to be spent on the Alameda and San Diego projects.

SAND POINT PROJECT.
The Sand Point project, bordering on Lake Washington, will cover about 400 acres. The committee said that the development of the site was not favored for use of both lighter-than-air and heavier-than-air aircraft. It recommended that at least one unit of heavier-than-air equipment be established at a cost not to exceed $1,500,000.

"The future development of the site and the enlargement of its aircraft activities," the committee said, "should be subject to future decision and growth."

The committee stated that "notwithstanding many advantages of Hunter's Point, on San Francisco Bay, and the persuasive reasons advanced in its favor, it believes the Alameda site on the opposite side of the bay is preferable."

Speaking in favor of the Alameda site, the committee said:

LARGE ACRESAGE.
"The large acreage at Alameda makes possible a naval base which will permit not only of dry docks on satisfactory pile foundations, berthing spaces, repair shops, etc., but also of shipbuilding facilities to any extent desired, bases for fuel oil and coal and other naval supplies, aviation fields, training and other stations. This would give ample opportunity for the development of an adequate naval base with all of its activities concentrated at one point."

The committee added that if such FAULTS OF MARE ISLAND.

"In view of all these considerations," the committee said, "it recommends that the site offered by the city of Alameda be selected."

The cost of clearing and grading the Sand Point site was fixed at approximately $800,000, but complete development of this project was not considered by the committee as necessary at the present time.

The committee asserted that the expenditure necessary to equip the site for use as a flying field would depend upon the extent of development desired by the Navy Department.

Edin Hook, Port Angeles, Wash., was recommended to be retained as an operating station for small units, including aircraft, destroyers and submarines, "in case of emergency," but the committee said "no further improvement should be undertaken at this time."

HOBOKEN HOTEL FIRE DEATH LIST GROWS.

THIRTEENTH VICTIM SUCCEDES TO BURNS; TWO OTHERS IN SERIOUS CONDITION.

(BY A. P. DAY WIRE.)
HOBOKEN, N. J., Jan. 31.—The death list resulting from the fire last night which destroyed the Hotel Colonial here totaled thirteen today, seven women and six men.

The thirteenth victim, Miss Blanch Kahler, 35, of Jersey City, died today in a hospital. Two men, badly burned, are in a very serious condition.

Fire department officials started an inquiry today to determine the cause of the fire, while the police department investigated the manner in which the hotel was conducted. Charges of Fire Chief Gilday that whisky bottles were found in some of the rooms, caused the second inquiry.

The bodies of five of the victims, three women and two men, remained unidentified this morning.

with skeleton crews, but would not seriously cripple the Navy.

The committee's action is not unexpected, the naval chief said. "We still will be able to keep all the latest battleships and about 10 per cent of the new destroyers in full commission."

Secretary Daniels added that he had opposed before the subcommittee the reduction in the appropriations for continuation of the building program for naval aviation and for the development of bases and dock facilities on the Pacific Coast and Hawaii.

"These are the vital things that must go on," he said.

Representative Kelley said the amount carried in the appropriation bill would permit a monthly expenditure of approximately $7,500, 000 on the Navy's construction program during the coming fiscal year, and would not necessitate the abandonment of any projects started.

Expenditures on construction during the current fiscal year, approximately $7,500,000 a month, he said. The Navy Department requested $184,000,000 for the coming year.

IMPORTANT DECISIONS HELD UP BY RECESS.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The Supreme Court recessed today until February 28, without having acted on several important cases which it had been expected to decide.

The undecided cases included the appeal of Senator Truman H. Newberry from conviction under the Corrupt Practices Act, Laver Act cases and suits to test the validity of the child labor section of the 1919 revenue act and of the Farm Loan Act.

REPARATIONS CLOUD FADES.

Experts See Financial Gloom Dissipating.

Supreme Council Plan Will Need Changes.

Ability of Germany to Pay Considered.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—The definite fixation of the financial reparations to be paid by Germany will, in the opinion of American government officials and financial and economic experts, contribute more than almost any other factor toward bringing about the financial rehabilitation of the world.

But authorities here are not optimistic regarding the success of the plan approved by the Supreme Council of the Allies at Paris for a determination of the German debt.

It is the best opinion in informed circles here that the reparations plan approved by the Supreme Council is a step in the right direction relative to the amount that Germany can reasonably be expected to pay. But it is not the conviction of officials who have given close study to the financial situation of Germany.

Sequences of the Paris Peace Conference that the Allied powers have yet reached the point of a financial settlement with Germany such as that nation and the rest of the world can regard as permanent.

FRENCH CONCESSIONS
There is grave doubt that Germany will accept the Paris plan of settlement, although it is recognized in Washington that the French government has gone as far toward making financial concessions as possible at this time without forcing a crisis for the Briand Cabinet and overthrow.

On the other hand, it is the constant expectation here that the German government will object vigorously to the latest plan of the Allied powers on the plea that the amounts fixed for payment exceed the extent of Germany's ability to pay, and could not be accepted by the present Berlin government without threatening the outbreak of a new German revolution and the overthrow of the Ebert government.

The agreement, viewed from the standpoint of a most striking recession from the original French position respecting what Germany should pay, is seen in informed quarters here as an important step in the right direction. But Federal experts who have made a thorough study of the whole question of Germany's ability to pay insist that the settlement just reached cannot be accepted as final or fundamental.

LEVEL NOT REACHED.
As the conviction in high administrative circles here is that Germany is unable to meet the principal of $10,000,000,000, and as this level has not been reached in the Paris plan, it is insisted by men in their effort to reach an agreement at Paris, it is insisted by men qualified to give the correct opinion that there must, when French public opinion is ripe for it, be still further concessions on the part of Germany can be positively expected to pay has been definitely fixed.

It was pointed out by one Federal expert that the greatest difficulty in the situation will be that of finding a market for Germany's bonds until the investors of the world are confident that the settlement has been made on a fairly lasting basis.

In their opinion, the situation, American officials and reparations experts have based their conclusions not only on the matter of Germany's willingness to pay, but on her ability to pay.

JAP TREATY CAUSES ROW.

The contents of the report are all important, Mr. Colby has the report. The people of the West, to whom this subject is of paramount importance, are entitled to know what that report contains. Yesterday it was discussed at length in Japan. Our people should not have to wait its details through Japanese news channels.

"It is not sufficient that the representatives from California or the Foreign Relations Committee under a promise of secrecy should finally know what disposition is intended to be made of the agricultural lands of California and other Western States. The people of those Western States are entitled to know it, and entitled to know it now."

The grave question here is not whether I am right in saying that a treaty has been presented which in effect repeals our alien land laws or whether Mr. Colby is right in saying that no such draft of a treaty has been presented. The matter is far beyond any personal controversy. The question is, what has been done on the subject in which the West is most interested and which most intimately concerns the West's future? And the West should be told forthwith."

Kidnaped Baby Found Alone in Vacant House.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

SAFETY. Jan. 31.—A 4-month-old baby, found alone in a vacant house, was identified here today as Harry E. Smith, Jr., said by the San Francisco police to have been kidnaped from that city January 28.

The identification was made by the boy's mother, Mrs. Alice Smith.

Mrs. Smith, accompanied by a newspaper man, rushed from San Francisco to this city by automobile when told that a baby had been found. She went to the hospital in which the child is recovering from the effects of exposure and seemed it as her own without hesitation.

The baby was found uncovered except for its clothing by Daniel Raymond, a workman, who heard it crying as he passed the house. The police took it in charge and Mrs. Smith was notified.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Woolen manufacturers told the House Ways and Means Committee that they have no hope of extending foreign trade and need protection in order to keep domestic markets. They urged re-enactment of the Payne-Aldrich bill as a temporary measure while general tariff revision is in progress.

The State Department remained silent again today about its negotiations with Japan, despite renewed demands from Senator Johnson for publicity of details of the proposed agreement. Secretary of State Colby said the government was proceeding in a usual and orderly way.

The best-posted authorities here on war reparations declared today that the reparations settlement agreed upon by the Allies powers is bound to fail because it is impossible.

The Supreme Court in an opinion by six justices decided that Judge Landis should not have presided at the trial of Victor Berger, convicted of disloyalty, because of the charge that the judge was prejudiced against Germans. Justices McReynolds, Day and Pitney dissented.

RUMANIA FEARS RED INVASION.

Country Outwardly Unconcerned; Inwardly Shaking.

Afraid Attack Rumors Will Cut Off Nation Credit.

Could Resist Bolsheviks With Army of a Million.

BY LARRY RUE.

(BY CABLE-EXCLUSIVE SERVICE.)

BUCHAREST, Jan. 31.—Inwardly

fearing a descent of Bolshevik armies on Bessarabia, the Rumanian government is outwardly assuming an attitude that an invasion of the Reds is remote and highly improbable.

This position is due to a desire not to give Russia an excuse for attack or possibly with the idea that the difference between Bucharest and Moscow may be settled diplomatically.

Another reason may be that at present the country is fearing an attack might destroy Rumania's credit abroad.

For some time a certain cabinet minister in Rumania has been informing the newspapers that the country has not reason to believe it is exposed to a Bolshevik invasion and as far as it knows the presence of the Red troops on the Bessarabia border is merely on account of its advantage as a winter quarter.

The minister of war has informed the cabinet that he is satisfied the concentration of Russian troops is intended to either surround the Ukraine and make that country completely soviet or take Bessarabia from Rumania. Observers, including Americans who have visited the front, express the belief that the Reds intend to attack Bessarabia as soon as the winter is frozen. This year the river is open, so far, and it is impossible to cross against resisting currents; hence Moscow has adopted a more friendly attitude towards Rumania. The Red force may shift its objective to Galicia with the idea of hitting Poland through Czechoslovakia, where an internal revolution is planned.

The new attitude is reflected in the Moscow wireless, which protested the Vilna occupation and other alleged trespassing of Poland and League of Nations armies on Russian soil. It is understood Russia has 50,000 troops near Bessarabia while Rumania has 25,000 troops ready to resist the attack with 25,

000 held in reserve.

The Bessarabian railroad connecting with Rumania is a narrow gauge. It is officially stated Rumania can easily raise a field army of 80,000 men, and more than 2, 000,000 in extreme emergency. The morale of the Rumanian troops is reported high. The Russian infantry is practically equipped with 1918 model Russian rifles. Here-fore the standard of the Red infantry was extremely low as compared with the artillery and cavalry.

The appearance of the infantry has improved.

Investigations report the economic conditions across the Dniester deplorable. The peasants are without food and the land is untilled. The great fields which formerly bore big crops are barren.

Villages and cities in Rumania have lost from one to two-thirds of their populations.

REPUBLICAN WILL RECONSTRUCT SOUTH.

HAYS ANNOUNCES COMMITTEE TO REORGANIZE BELOW MASON DIXON LINE.

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Chairman Will H. Hays, of the Republican National Committee, yesterday announced the appointment of a committee which will take up the work of reorganizing the Republican party in Southern States. While no information was given of the course to be followed a statement issued from Republican national headquarters asserted a complete reconstruction in that region might result.

The action was taken by Mr. Hays in compliance with resolutions adopted by the Republican National Committee, just before the last

Republican convention at Chicago, and by the convention itself. The committee on reconstruction will consist of Representative Sloop of Virginia, Earl Kinsley, National Committee member from Vermont, R. B.

Howell, National Committee member from Nebraska; Will Hays, ex-officio chairman, and Clarence B. Miller, ex-officio secretary.

The reconstruction proposed involves the negro question and as the Republican party has great strength among the negroes of the northern tier of the States there has been hesitancy about adopting any policy of representation to the national convention, from the South, which would help to build up a white Republican party there.

members of the Save-a-Life-League were told yesterday by Dr. H. M.

Warren, president. This exceeded the figure of 1919 by more than 1000, he said. During the year 2004 women, a large increase, died through self-destruction. The increased percentage among women was ascribed to their entry in commercial and political life. The youngest was 5 years of age, while the oldest was 103. More than 300 soldiers took their lives.

Firearms, poisons and illuminating gas were the most usual methods. Classified among the suicides were seventy-five presidents and managers of large business concerns, thirty-six reputed millionaires, twenty-five wealthy women, twenty-four lawyers, eight judges, fifty-one doctors, forty stage people, thirty-four college professors and teachers, twenty-seven college students,

twenty-four broke fifty-nine bankers, including fourteen bank presidents, twelve clergymen, two evangelists and one Y.M.C.A. secretary.

The People and Their Daily Troubles

Prohibition Here Forces Liquor Embargo in England.

BY JANE DIXON.

England announces an embargo on two of her present exports to America, rye and Scotch whiskies. The ban begins February 15.

The reason given for this drastic measure is that dealers are depleting their stock for home consumption in order to supply our demands.

"Since the institution of prohibition in the United States," says the London Times, "the demand for Scotch whisky has increased to such an extent as to threaten a rise in price of liquor at home—a proceeding unnecessary, impracticable and unpopular."

So say the authorities over there.

Sarcasm? No, indeed. The lion is not clowning to tickle the sensibilities of other nations.

The lion is fairly busy these days keeping its own claws trimmed and ready for all emergencies.

Obviously it regards the present situation as an emergency.

We could not criticize the lion, however, if behind its paw it concealed a broad grin for the American eagle compelled to send all the way across the ocean for a product which under proper censorship might be safely produced in its own domain.

The impossibility of forcing men and women to accept a law destroying all semblance of individual preference is becoming more evident every day, as opposers of the Eighteenth Amendment hoped it would and as prohibitionists feared it might.

Talk with the men who went over to the trenches and fought for the ideals of freedom.

See how they feel about their countrymen who stayed home and voted to curtail their privileges.

The truth of the matter is prohibition in the United States is a farce—one in which the very bones and sinews of the nation delight to participate.

No less an authority than John F. Kramer, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, declares the United States will never be bone dry. Mr. Kramer is a man not afraid of the truth.

On the heels of such declaration comes the proposed embargo by England.

Forcing thinking men into narrow grooves and always has been dangerous business.

Let us prohibit license without destroying the same freedom of choice.

COINED BEEF AND CABBAGE. An acquaintance dropping in unexpectedly upon a friend for dinner the other evening met profuse apologies because the family board was decorated with a large platter of corned beef and cabbage.

Kindly note the word "decorated." It is used advisedly.

The family which boasts a generous portion of this wholesome, nutritious dish once a week, or once every two weeks at least, is indeed fortunate.

Just when, where and by whom corned beef and cabbage were tagged as indicative of a low culinary standard is not important.

The important part of the decision is it happens to be both stupid and entirely wrong.

Start a group of half a dozen children out on such plain foods as corned beef and cabbage; start a group of like age and number on some of the intricate, highly seasoned, ridiculously expensive concoctions devised by effete chefs.

At the expiration of a few years compare groups.

If the future of the U.S.A. depended upon the latter group of dyspeptic, flabby-muscled eaters, everything would be over with Uncle Sam but the funeral flowers.

It is the healthy young huskies who pack away a set of eggs with home cooked potatoes for breakfast, many slices of good wheat bread with vegetable or meat, or both for luncheon, and one of mother's home-made boiled dinners every second day who go over the top with a whoop at the zero hour.

Again, for no reason whatsoever.

corned beef and cabbage have come to be regarded as the national dish of Ireland.

Natives of the "old sod" itself have assured us this is a gross error. Irish potatoes are the national dish of Ireland.

Corned beef and cabbage make something of a luxury with a majority of Emerald Islanders.

Pork is the usual meat, because pigs are easy to raise, being natural foragers, not at all "pernickety" about their diets.

The fact that an Irishman takes to a plate of corned beef and cabbage like a bear to a parcel of wild honey is neither here nor there. Many a 100 per cent American feels the same way about a mess of pig's knuckles and sauerkraut.

Boiled cabbage was a favorite dish of the first Americans.

They never needed to apologize. Why need we?

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Old Car Lines.

LA HABRA, Jan. 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The one-man car seems to be quite a source of concern to many patrons of that line.

Keeping up to the auto age when one is to rush a little faster than his neighbor, seems a woful waste of energy.

Our friend should have been a patron of the Angel city in the early nineties. Then one took their lunch along if they wished to travel the length of the Grand-avenue cable.

One could get a stop over in coming downtown, from the then, better part of the city, to the postoffice (in temporary quarters on upper Broadway, about Fifth street), another at the old City Hall, where the city library was housed, and then continue to the shopping district on North Spring street.

All for one nickel. Then one came back on the little old mule car on Main street, mostly a one-man car, if you did not count the mules.

The transit on this line was quite rapid for those days, and there was no danger of the power going off or a strand of the cable breaking, or the car jumping the track.

The conductor, driver, or whatever his official title was, would wind the lines around the break, collect the fares and the little old mules would travel right along. They knew what a wildly gesticulating female meant just as well as anybody did, and promptly put on the brakes.

Then the one-man car could amble along just like it did a few decades ago.

as happy as if they took time to look about and forget their awful hurry.

Then the one-man car could amble along just like it did a few decades ago.

One speaker said: Give us beauty in our Southland. Now what really constitutes beauty is such an open question, that no real light was thrown on the subject by this speaker.

Another would have the front page devoted to American music.

American composers and American art. I have no doubt that these subjects were very interesting to the speaker, but what about the general public?

What proportion of the Times readers are really interested in any of these subjects that were suggested should appear on the front page of the Times, it would be interesting to know. I believe that number is so small that it would not pay the Times to give the space.

I regret that so much space is given in the Times on the front page to the details of the awful crime of a woman charged with murder. But I realize that it is done because the readers demand it.

A newspaper gives the public just what it demands. They are in the same position as the merchant, who offers goods that the public will buy whether they are good or bad.

Look at the great crowds that tried to get in the courtroom on the first day of the murder trial. Many of those who failed to gain admittance instead of returning home, visited other courtrooms to satisfy their depraved minds. Think of the multitudes who will day by day follow every detail of this terrible crime.

What do you think of the morals of such people? Not much. Those who will feed their minds on that which is depraved, will become lower morally as the result. Blame then the public for having such depraved appetites, that they demand that a newspaper shall publish every detail of an awful crime, and not the newspaper because it complies with the wish.

"How to Dress"

—The Subject of this Morning's Lecture Demonstration at the Better Homes Institute

Ross Crane, head of the extension department of the Art Institute of Chicago, in his missionary effort to carry artistic ideas as to feminine attire from Chicago, the great style center, to the homes of American women is aided by Miss Evelyn Hansen, formerly dress demonstrator at the State Normal College of Eau Claire, Wisconsin.

Miss Hansen in her very gracious manner teaches the individual woman how to recognize her type and dress and create a type for herself; what colors she may use and why; and how to get telling results with inexpensive materials. Color will be the theme of Miss Hansen's Tuesday morning lecture-demonstration on "How to Dress," which begins at 11 o'clock.

Important!

Owing to the tremendous popularity of the Better Homes Institute which began yesterday at Barker Bros., it has been found necessary to hold this morning's session

This Week Only

At any drug store named below, a 10-day tube of Pepsodent. Simply present the coupon.

Watch the teeth whiten—note how clean they feel. Then think what such protection means to you and yours.

Get the free tube today.

Millions now show the effects

In every circle nowadays you see glistening teeth. Ask the owners. You will find, we think, that they are using Pepsodent.

Go get this free tube and try it for yourself. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Then let the children use it. Their teeth need it most. Very few children reach the age of 15 without some tooth decay.

Let the man who smokes see how it takes the stained film from his teeth.

Let all find out how much cleaner teeth feel, how much safer, when brushed in this new way. Then this ten-day test may bring to your home some lifetime effects.

New ways to fight it

Now dental science has found ways to fight film, day by day. Able authorities have proved the methods efficient. Leading dentists everywhere now urge their application.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. To millions it has brought a new era in teeth cleaning. And to every home a ten-day test is offered free, so all may quickly know it.

Quick, visible results

Anyone can see and feel what Pepsodent is doing. No old method of brushing ever brought such effects. So we let this test convince you.

One ingredient is pepsin. Another multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits that cling. The alkalinity of the saliva is multiplied also, and at once. That is to neutralize mouth acids which cause tooth decay.

Two factors directly attack the film. One of them keeps teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily adhere.

The effects of Pepsodent come with every application. We constantly combat, efficient ways, the teeth's great enemies. And millions of teeth are given new protection and new beauty.

Learn how teeth look—how they feel—when you combat the film. Get from your druggist, without cost, this ten-day test. Note the instant results, then look in ten days.

Millions have already done this. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Now show your home folks what clean teeth really mean.

The war on film

Dental science, the world over, is fighting a war on film. Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. And most tooth troubles are now traced to it.

Those troubles have been constantly increasing. The ordinary tooth paste does not end film, so the tooth brush has proved inadequate. Millions know how well-brushed teeth have discolored and decayed.

It is the film-coat that discolors, not the teeth. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. And, despite all brushing, few escape these troubles caused by film.

IN BUTTER and EGGS—two foods whose freshness and goodness must be above suspicion—the name “Young” is assurance of the best.

Young's Butter has all the sweetness and rich golden goodness that come from purest cream. It conforms in every way to Young's standard of “Quality Goods.”

“Willowbrook” Eggs, Young's finest, come from large poultry farms around Los Angeles, where hens are carefully fed on a combination of solid food, wheat, corn, etc., and necessary green stuffs. As a result of this scientific feeding, “Willowbrook” Eggs are full of nutriment and finely flavored, for a hen's food largely determines the quality of her eggs.

“Willowbrook” Eggs weigh a minimum of 26 ounces to the dozen. One Willowbrook Egg weighs as much as two pullet eggs. Each egg has the name “Willowbrook” stamped on it for your protection.

Young's “Lily” Eggs are the same size and weight as Willowbrook. The “Lily” Egg, however, is the regular ranch egg—from the hen who roams the field for her food.

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

Betrothal Interests.

Announcement of the betrothal of Miss Gwendolen Robertson, daughter of the Rt. Hon. and Mrs. John Mackinnon Robertson of London, to Samuel Putnam Farrington of Oak Knoll and Minneapolis is of much interest here, because Mr. Farrington will bring his bride here to live in his beautiful Oak Knoll residence.

Mr. Robertson, father of the bride-elect, was a member of the Aquilith Cabinet and is an author and statesman of international reputation, and Miss Robertson is an important young figure in British society. She has been making her first visit to the United States and is a distant relative of Mr. Farrington. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Humphrey Farrington of 2100 Stevens avenue, Minneapolis, who are also well known in Southern California. Mr. Farrington is a graduate of Harvard University of the class of 1915.

Off to Washington.

Isidor B. Dockweiler, Democratic national committeeman, and Mrs. Dockweiler will leave on Thursday for Washington, D. C., where they expect to remain until after Easter. They anticipate attending numerous interesting social and official functions. Mrs. Dockweiler is just recovering from a serious illness.

By Mr. and Mrs. Hellman.

A most enjoyable dinner and bridge party was that over which Mr. and Mrs. Maurice S. Hellman of 2225 South Harvard Boulevard presided on Saturday evening. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Holterhoff, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Dunn, Mrs. Charles H. Sharp, Mrs. Edwin T. Earl, Mrs. Dan McFarland, Mrs. Jaro Von Schmidt, Mrs. John D. Foster and Ferdinand R. Bain.

At Dinner-Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Pembroke Thom presided over a delightful dinner-dance at the Wilshire Country Club on Saturday evening. The big table, at which there were places for fifty, was handsomely adorned with a group of baskets filled with early spring blooms in pink, deep blue, purples and yellows.

Mr. Stedman a Host.

Parker Stedman was host at a charming dinner party at the Ambassador on Saturday evening. With him were Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, Clarkson Potter, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hamilton, Somerset Maugham, Mrs. James S. Soutter, Porter, Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeffras, Frederick Stowers, Miss Florence Russell, Seven Van Rensselaer, Miss Cornelia McLaughlin, Lionel Barrymore, Mr. and Mrs. Flynn, Martin Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hughes and Miss Ellnor Glyn.

Receive Congratulations.

Mrs. W. S. Bartlett was receiving congratulations over the birth of a grand-daughter, born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. James H. French at the Bartlett residence, 3200 West Adams street.

Jeffras are Hosts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jeffras were hosts on Sunday evening at a dinner at the Ambassador, having as guests Baron and Baroness de Ropp, Dr. and Mrs. West Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Barrett.

Given Small Tea.

Mrs. Alfred Bayer gave a little tea-dansant at the Ambassador on Saturday, having as guests Miss Genevieve Maier, Miss Leontine Bayer, Hugh Stillwell, Nat Jeffras and William Kennedy.

For Her Daughter.

Mrs. Frank Macomber of Hobart Boulevard was hostess at a dinner party at the Ambassador in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Harry Hall of San Diego. Mr. Hall is a brother of Norman Hall, the author and aviator.

Hosts at Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Charles gave a dinner party at their home on Ardmore avenue on Friday. Plates were laid for ten. After dinner the party spent the evening dancing at the Ambassador.

Here for Wedding.

Mrs. Samuel W. Noyes, wife of Lieut.-Col. Noyes, is visiting her brother, Herbert S. Noyes, 519 South Ardmore avenue. She came here for the wedding of her niece, Miss Mina Handline, who is to marry Harry B. Lamport on Thursday, and is sharing honors with the bride-elect at many social functions.

For Supper-Dance.

Miss Cecile McLaughlin is to give a small dance and buffet supper on Thursday evening in honor of Misses Miriam Rowley and Margaret Pogers of Winnipeg, Can., who are visiting Miss Mary Gray.

Engagement Announced.

Mrs. G. Hill Goddard of a avenue announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Goddard, to Earl Mayon, vice-president of the Los Angeles National Bank of Commerce. The wedding will be in June. The couple will reside in St. Louis.

By Mrs. Clark.

Mrs. Wesley Clark of the Hotel Darby is to be a luncheon hostess on Thursday.

From Kentucky.

Mrs. Anna Bowman Kinnaird of Kentucky is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mathews. Mrs. Kinnaird spent last winter here and made many friends who are giving her a hearty welcome.

Orator and Poet Here.

Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, orator and poet of New York City, arrived here yesterday. His longtime friend, Wadsworth Harris, is planning a luncheon in his honor at the Ambassador.

For Card Party.

Mrs. A. W. Williamson of 3227 Hollywood Boulevard has lent her home for a card party to be given Friday by the Palos Verde society for the benefit of the disabled veterans of the World War.

Apparel for Spring Advance Showing of the Season's Most Exclusive Models

The garments of spring make a personal appeal and they are exclusive beyond peradventure of a doubt—in many instances they are suggestive of Spring flowers in their wonderful colorings.

Striking effects are produced by clusters of beads, glinting embroideries or beautiful braidings.

Every garment individualizes the expression of new Spring styles and conforms in every way to the Ville de Paris-B. H. Dyas Co. standard.

New Frocks

—fashioned from crisp taffeta in the most youthful and perky models—pleatings, ruffles, tucks, long, tight bodices, very full gathered skirts or skirts decidedly circular, short puffed sleeves—all depicting the newness so typical of Spring apparel.

The colors are navy, brown and black with smart touches of vivid colors such as flame, rust, henna and orange.

The prices range $29.50, $39.50, $45.00, $55.00, $65.00, $69.50, $75.00 and $85.00.

Millinery

—depicting the most beautiful Spring interpretations of silk, braid and straw, smartly touched with decorative bits of ribbon or vari-hued embroideries. Unequaled in style and quality. Included are all of the newer Spring shadings.

Priced from $17.50 to $65.00
(Millinery Shop—Third Floor)

JOINT HIGHWAY REPORT.

A service of incalculable value to the people of California has been rendered by the Automobile Club of Southern California and the California State Automobile Association in their joint report on the highways of the State, a comprehensive summary of which was published in yesterday's Times. The report, which is to be printed in book form, will also be a valuable reference work for highway commissions of other States, the government engineering departments and for use in engineering courses in universities and colleges.

Copies of the book will be sent to State and county highway departments all over the country and will undoubtedly have a guiding influence on many important highway enterprises. The mistakes made in California and the lessons to be drawn from them are clearly and specifically pointed out in the report, so that the work will be the means of preventing similar mistakes in the future, not only in California, but in other States.

Experience is a wise, if sometimes costly, teacher. That some of the California highway construction should not have been so faulty or inadequate could not have been foreseen. By pointing out these mistakes, describing and analyzing them, the engineers of the automobile clubs have performed a valuable service to highway builders everywhere.

The State of California has issued highway bonds to the amount of $75,000,000, which about $25,000,000 is not expended. California counties have issued $42,000,000 in highway bonds. It is estimated that, in order to carry out the full highway program, the State will have to raise $100,000,000 more for highways by bond issues. With so large a sum of money involved and good roads being such a vital factor in the development of the State the matter is one of the greatest importance to the people—one in which every citizen has a right to interest himself, for he is not only paying the bill, but is directly concerned in the result.

The report confirms, convincingly and thoroughly, the impression that has generally prevailed that the large sums of money appropriated for highways have not been expended to the best advantage. Although many promises have been made since 1910, the disagreeable fact remains that there is not yet a connected highway the length of the State. The trunk highway is not even completed between San Diego and San Francisco, nor between Riverside and San Francisco. The much-needed, often-promised highway between Los Angeles and San Francisco still lies in the future. The communities interested in that road have paid an enormous percentage of the State highway costs. The road should have been completed long ago and the large number of people interested are properly indignant because of the delay. The State Highway Commission is again promising action and expects to have the road from Indio to Brawley completed early next summer, but, even if that promise is fulfilled, irreparable loss has been caused by the failure to build the road promptly.

The automobile clubs, with a combined membership of 71,000, made the investigation and report when it became obvious to them that the State highways already constructed were rapidly deteriorating. The resulting engineers of the two organizations, J. B. Lippincott for the southern club and Hove and Peters for the northern club, directed the investigation in their respective territories. Prof. C. Derleth of the department of engineering of the University of California; E. J. Brunner, consulting engineer of San Francisco, and ten other engineers were associated in the work. The investigation was begun last July and the work has been continuous, systematic and thorough up to the time of the filing of the report.

The engineers collected much valuable data concerning weight, speed and volume of traffic and made detailed inspections of all paved roads on the State system. Laboratory tests have been made on the materials of the highway system. The highway bibliography was assembled. The engineers of the two clubs have also prepared extensive reports which it is proposed to have printed in large volumes.

The report is undoubtedly the most extensive and comprehensive study of the highway subject made in the United States. It required five months of continuous work. The investigation cost $25,000. While the report unhesitatingly points out mistakes and errors of judgment, the criticism is constructive in character and is bound to have the effect of saving valuable time and large sums of money to taxpayers both in California and in other States.

The difficulties under which the State Highway Commission was compelled to perform its earlier work are acknowledged. The report says that the construction programs of 1913, 1914 and 1915 are highly commendable and that the mileage of roads built in that period in the face of an unsalable 4-per-cent bond was a most creditable achievement. Cleanness of administration and absence of scandal have been noticeable. Willful waste and extravagance cannot be charged and honesty of purpose is freely admitted as the report.

Criticism of the State Highway Commission is summed up as follows by H. W. Kellar, chairman of the Roads and Highways Committee of the Automobile Club of Southern California:

"The Highway Commission is justly charged with building inadequate roads and persisting in such construction when it was evident, even to the layman, that the roads would not serve the increasing traffic and loads to which they were subjected. They failed to observe or profit by the example of other States, and there has been an almost total lack of scientific research and experimentation on their part."

The most serious accusation against them is that they have not been able to bring their neglect to safeguard the roads they built. The evidence shows that in the rebuilding of one road they destroyed with their own trucks more miles than they repaired. The destruction was halted by the organization. Although legislation was initiated and secured by the commission to control the loads which might legally pass over the highways, no steps were taken by the commission or any other department of the State government to enforce those acts.

"It can be safely asserted that the greatest factor in the rapid deterioration of our roads has been due to overloading indulged in by the public without let or hindrance by the State commission. The roads were inadequate and ultimately would have succumbed to even a regulated traffic, but their destruction was hastened by the failure of the State authorities to enforce existing statutes."

The engineers who made the investigation

Now's Our Chance for a Knockout!

tion report that 39.5 per cent of the concrete pavements are in poor condition and an additional 19.3 per cent in only fair condition. Such a condition indicates that a portion, at least, of the State highways will wear out long before they are paid for, as the bonds issued are for long terms.

It must be taken into consideration that traffic conditions have changed since the inception of the State's highway program. More trucks and heavier trucks are being used now and the demands upon the highways are perhaps greater than the commission could reasonably be expected to foresee or consider. Concrete pavement that was with good judgment, deemed adequate ten years ago or so will not stand the burden of present-day demands. It has long been true, and will continue to be true, that the rapid growth of California compels frequent changes in building plans, that new and larger improvements have to be made to meet extraordinary and unexpected demands. Virtually, every community in the State is confronted with that situation and it is not strange that the State highway program of a decade ago is now found to be out of date.

But while the California Highway Commission cannot be blamed for extraordinary and unforeseen conditions, it cannot be absolved from the responsibility for many errors of judgment and inexorable delay in completing vitally necessary trunk lines. California's highways are of direct importance to every community and every individual. They have a direct bearing on the growth of the State and its industries. The people made a splendid investment when they voted $75,000,000 of bonds for paved roads and additional bond issues will be both wise and profitable.

It is of the utmost importance, however, that the money appropriated for highways be expended as wisely as possible and to the best advantage. The thorough investigation of the automobile clubs, therefore, is a valuable service and one that should be tremendously helpful in the future handling of the highway system. The report is especially to be commended in that it is constructive throughout and its whole tenor one of helpful criticism rather than destructive fault-finding.

CAPTURE OF THE KIDNAPERS.

Another telling victory of law and justice over mercenary villainy was scored in Los Angeles yesterday when the police captured the abductors of Mrs. Gladys Withereil, rescued her from the cabin in the canyon where they had secreted her and returned her unharmed to her husband at home. Fact has again proved more thrilling than fiction. It is not in the movie alone that the heroine is rescued, the villains are punished and the triumph of justice is assured. That the abductors were clever scoundrels is proven by their confession that they had successfully kidnaped a woman in Denver and another in Seattle, that they believed they had invented a system that defied detection. They cynically admitted that they had adopted abduction as a profession.

In Los Angeles, however, they encountered men in the service of the law still cleverer than themselves. They were outwitted, outmaneuvered, outplotted. They found a community where society is so well organized that it is able to protect itself against the machinations of the most astute criminals. Justice may wear handgloves over her eyes, but her votaries in this community possess what malefactors are beginning to regard with a superstitious dread as a second sight.

The agony of suspense is ended. The horror which hung over the community has been conjured away. Never a romance of realistic fiction had a happier ending. The human bonds were deliberately plotted to traffic in terrorizing homes and families, in putting to the vilest uses the love of husband and wife and parent for child, were caught in a web of their own weaving. They were not betrayed. No fortuitous circumstance led to their exposure. The superior intelligence of the officers of the law enabled them to fathom the method that would be used by the kidnapers to get in touch with those from whom they sought to extort a ransom and to make that method disclose their identity.

Nothing was left to chance. It was not alone the quick wit of a telephone operator that landed a motor car filled with policemen at the public phone station where one of the kidnapers was calling the Withereil residence within two minutes of the time the call was recorded at the central telephone station. That call was anticipated and arranged for. A governor on the phone connecting with the home of Mr. Withereil registered the station from which the call was received. Special officers were waiting, like bloodhounds in leash, for such a call. They had been waiting for three days and their vigilance was finally rewarded.

One can imagine the surprise of Jack Carr when he stepped from that phone booth into the center of the squad of waiting detectives. He attempted to brazen it out by saying "If you do not release me to get a question whether our laws should not be too old hands to be outwitted by a gang of bulls." But the officers were too astute to be fooled by such bravado. They gave him ten minutes to make a full confession and told him he would be lynched if he did not come through. The hempen rope which they displayed spoke with irresistible logic.

Only those with craven hearts plot such unnatural crimes. There has never yet been a kidnaper who did not squeal when he began to feel the halter draw. Men who prey on women and children are the most cowardly of all knaves. These things were well known to the detectives; it explains why they carried a halter along with their weapons. Those who have studied the psychology of criminals know that cowardice is their predominant characteristic. Courage is a form of idealism. It requires a true heart; and true hearts do not knowingly risk their lives in false causes. When the "bold bandit" is once cornered he almost invariably displays a contemptible cowardice. One of his own miserable carcasses was threatened Jack Carr betrayed his confederate and led the officers to the cabin where Mrs. Withereil was held.

That swift and adequate punishment will be meted out to the kidnapers is assured. They are doomed to spend the rest of their miserable lives working for the State in a penal institution. The misuse that they made of their freedom fully justifies the future treatment of them as slaves. It is a question whether our laws should not be so amended that capital punishment be inflicted on those who attack women and children. There are things in this world more sacred than human lives, and the first of these is woman's honor. There is scant justification in holding an attack upon a woman's honor of less consequence than on a man's life. Of this crime, however, the kidnapers of Mrs. Withereil were not guilty. Confident that they would receive a magnificent ransom for her release, they offered her no physical violence.

Sighs of relief rose from a hundred thousand homes when the news came of Mrs. Withereil's release. As long as her whereabouts and the identity of her captors were unknown none could say where the scoundrels might strike next. No home was safe. But the detection of the kidnapers and the release of their victim brings a period of five days of horror and suspense to a happy ending. The fate of the desperadoes will serve as a warning to others of their ilk that Los Angeles possesses a police and detective force whose vigilance is unsurpassed.

LOS ANGELES IS ON RACING MAP.Preparations Making for Big February 22 Affair.Starter Wagner on Way Here from Chicago.Entry List for Drivers Open Ten Days Longer.

The fact that Los Angeles is now firmly fixed on the automobile racing map was brought out yesterday in the announcement by Manager A. M. Young of the Speedway Association that Frederick Wagner, official starter of the American Automobile Association, not only had consented to make a special trip West for the Washington's birthday racing program at the Beverly course, but that he was leaving Chicago last night and would be here Friday ready to take over supervision of the preliminary speed trials during the two weeks preceding the big event.

WAS RECOGNIZED.
Recognition was given the local course by the A.A.A. on its opening race a year ago when the event was made the opening one of the national drivers' championship for 1920 and points given for place at finish to count in award of the title. The racing season wound up for last year on Thanksgiving. This year the February 22 program will again open the national racing season as well as the drivers' championship. This assures an entry list containing the names of practically every prominent driver in the country, including Ralph De Palma, who has already signed up and will drive a French Buick.

NINE SIGN UP.
With the entry list to remain open ten days longer and nine well-known drivers signed up for the event, it looks very much as though elimination trials would have to be held for the purpose of weeding out the less speedy cars. If such an elimination plan is decided upon it is considered certain by racing experts that no car will "make" the list unless it turns the trial lap at better than 100 miles an hour. Already in practice reports have come out of speeds better than 100 and 108 and there is a good chance of the local track record for 100-mile cars being broken before the race starts.

CRESCENT QUINTET
DEFEATS ALHAMBRA.

In the A.A.U. unlimited basketball play at Whittier last night, the Crescents hooked it onto the Alhambra 21 to 16 in a close and thrilling contest. The score for the first half was a 9-to-3 tie. Stanley featured for the Crescents with 13 points, converting seven baskets out of eight throws. Bean, who went in during the second half as guard, did wonderful work. Hamon, forward of the Alhambra, did the best work for the losers, scoring six points, and W. Wolford four. Still well refereed. The Crescents will tackle the fast L.A.C. quintet tomorrow night at Whittier.

BOXING NOTES.

In discussing the prospects of holding the Dempsey-Carpenter bout in New York Kearns was not sure that the gate would be any larger than $115,000 with the maximum charge of $15 under the new ruling of the boxing commission. "Why the Dempsey-Ireneen bout at Madison Square Garden only drew $115,000 with the prices ranging from $5 to $25. Whereas the Dempsey-Make fight at Benton Harbor drew $115,000 with the same rates prevailing. There are many other cities where we would be likely to draw better than New York under the present conditions. Deduct the expenses from a $150,000 gate in this city and you would not have enough to go around."

Charley White signed up for a match with Frankie Schall at Buffalo next Monday over the long distance phone. They will box ten rounds to a decision.

Lee P. Flynn, the New York promoter, has offered Charley White a chance to appear at Madison Square Garden against either Law Tander, Johnny Dundee or Willie Jackson.

Capt. Bob Roper, the Chicago heavyweight has arrived in New York for his twelve-round bout with Al Roberts, the Staten Island boxer at the Commonwealth Sporting Club, Wednesday night.

Fred Fulton has been matched to box Battling McCready at the Armory Athletic Association in Boston on February 3. The big plunger will also take on Rough-house Ware at Allentown, Pa., on February 22.

PIGEON ASSOCIATION
IN TWENTY-THIRD YEAR

The National Pigeon Pander's Association is 23 years old. It includes practically the entire country. The association issued $4,000 seamless bands in 1920 and may reach the 100,000 mark this year. The bands are placed on the pigeons which are to develop into racers when about ten days old. They constitute a means of identification and are registered with the governing body.

CRICKET CLUB HAS

When Rickard completed his conference with Kearns he reported to the office of William A. Brady and found Brady ready and willing to transfer his own and Cochran's interests to Rickard. It was agreed then that the necessary transfer papers will be drawn and duly signed today, which leaves Rickard alone to conduct all arrangements for the contest.

HAD AGREEMENT.

When Brady was seen later he explained that he had an amicable understanding with Rickard and that he is out altogether, and will not re-enter under any circumstances.

"I also speak for Mr. Cochran," said Mr. Brady, "when I say that we are out and will stay out. I wish Mr. Rickard the best of luck and hope he makes a million dollars in the undertaking, but I am out to stay."

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—The date of the bout remains July 2 and the site any portion of the American continent or Cuba as may be named by Rickard not later than March 1. Cochran has been seriously ill for some time and unable to take part in the negotiations resulting from Brady's determination to drop out of the promotion of the contest with the purse of $200,000 to be divided $200,000 to Dempsey and $200,000 to Carpenter.

Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, stated that he knew of the negotiations and was perfectly satisfied.

A north and south team between the golf pros who are open championship is a possibility. It was taken up last at the meeting of the Southern California Professional Golf Association, discussed, and a decision was appointed to the south.

Clarkson will meet with the representatives on their way to seek to arrange a match Saturday afternoon, the day the pre-amateur event which is the 72-hole medal play ends the season.

MUCH SAID.
Much has been said in the past concerning the superiority of the south. Hints of team matches have been flying around thick and fast for some time. Here is a chance to get some action. The north thinks it can beat the south. Al and Bob Lager and a few other amateurs are anything in the south.

DRAW BIG.
Why not pit them against each other? Leo Diesel, Eddie Chick Fraser, Frank Peabody, Martin, Ernest Martin, Eddie, and find out for once. The affair would draw a tremendous crowd. A six-man team match or man or ten men, according to number of northerners who south, could be arranged. The fair offers wonderful possibilities.

MUCH SAID.
Much has been said in the north regarding the superiority of that section's golfers over those of the south. Hints of team matches have been flying around thick and fast, but nothing has ever come of them.

Now is a chance to get some real action. The north thinks the East brothers, John and Bob, and the Epitoma brothers, Abe and Alvin, are a few others who are ahead of anything here in the south.

DRAW BIG.
They set pit them against some of the cracks—Leo Diegel, Eddie Loos, Gus Fraser, Frank Peebles, Hutt, Ernest Martin, Eddie Gay, and find out for once and all if the south would draw a tremendous party, and if held on the Los Angeles Country Club course would give the players a splendid opportunity to sample the course where the championship is to be played.

A six-man team match or eight men or ten men, according to the word of northerners who come south could be arranged. The affair would be wonderful possibilities.

DEANEY KNOCKED OUT.
CLEVELAND (O.) Jan. 31.—(Knockout) Chaney, Baltimore, scored a technical knockout over Delaney of Cleveland in the second round of a scheduled ten-round fight.

BASEBALL NOTES.

The New York State Legislature has before it tonight a bill designed to cleanse baseball from possibility of anything approaching the Chicago baseball scandal. Senator Frederick W. Kavanaugh of Saratoga and Assemblyman John T. Merriam of Albany, introduced a bill making a penalty of not more than $15,000 and imprisonment for not less than one year nor more than five years for any person attempting to bribe a baseball player or for any player accepting a bribe.

Down East the Orioles are still prophesying that Buck Weaver will be back on third base for the White Sox when the season opens. Buck's status is just the same now as it was last fall after the exposure as far as Chicago fans are concerned.

Branch Rickey is out with a statement that Roger Hornsby would have batted better than .400 in 1920 if he had not received an injury to his side.

The passing of Lefty O'Doul removes the last of the belligerents from the Yankee team. Huggins had lots of trouble with the Coast left-hander, who was hard to handle and very often refused to obey orders.

Ty Cobb has added another Coast leaguer to the Detroit pitching staff. The added starter is George Crumpler, a southpaw, late of the San Francisco club.

Davey Robertson's threat to remain at his home in Norfolk, Va., while the Cubs are basing in the sunshine at Pasadena and making ready for the 1921 campaign does not seem to worry the north side management. It is predicted the Virginian will be on the job when the Bruins embark for the Coast March 2.

The first big leaguers already in the southland are to start training. Catcher Earl Smith and Pitcher Bill Ryan of the Giants landed in Hot Springs last week. They will lumber up at the Arkansas resort until late in February when they will go to San Antonio to join McGraw's regulars.

Reports from Sacramento are that the Cleveland Indians will soon land in Hot Springs last week. Utility infielder Harry Lunte there as part payment for Southpaw Maile. Manager Bill Rodgers of Sacramento expects to play Lunte at shortstop, shifting Bill Orr to third base.

"The New York Yanks will fight it out with the world's champion Cleveland Indians for the 1921 American League title," declares Miller Huggins. He says his club

BREAKS RECORD.

(BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
ADELPHI (Australia) Jan. 31.—The world's record for the 100-yard swimming event was broken here today by Warren Kealoa, the Hawaiian swimmer. He made the distance in 51 1/4 seconds.

[The record for the 100-yard swim, in open water, is 51 1/4, held by Duke P. Kahanamoku of Honolulu.]

JACK CARROLL AFTER COAST LEAGUE BERTH.

Jack Carroll, eastern umpire, has written to Umpire Red Heid saying that he would like to come to the Coast and get into the traces in the Pacific Coast League. Carroll is regarded as a very clever indicator man and has done good work in the Michigan-Ontario League. He has had a great deal of experience and comes well recommended. His home is in Detroit, Mich.

KANSAS COLLEGE TO HAVE VARIED SPORTS.

Five members of the athletic department of the Kansas State "Aggies" will offer courses in football, basketball, baseball and track and field sports for men, gymnastics, folk dancing, games, esthetic dancing and technique of basketball, baseball and hockey for women and playground management for both men and women this summer at the Manhattan (Kan.) College.

MANY POLO MATCHES ON TAP THIS YEAR.

A total of twenty-three open polo tournaments will be held during January 29 to September 10. The official season was inaugurated at Del Monte, Cal., January 29, and will conclude with the national junior, open and senior championships at the Philadelphia Country Club, adjacent to the Quaker City, September 12 to 24.

course over he remarked that it must be deserving of all the good things said about it if Ross designed it.

St. Augustine can boast of three courses, but the St. Augustine links is the best of the three, and many will insist that it is the best in the whole South.

NEVER TIRES.

Then there is Belleair, with two courses that one never tires of playing. The championship course has stood the test for a number of years, and as well as the best amateur look forward to the annual championship here each March.

The West Coast also supports these courses that are going to be famous in the next three or four years. Herbert Strong laid out a course at St. Petersburg and another one at Clearwater last summer, and just recently the Clearwater links opened. Mike Brady built his charge here next season. He was to have been located there this winter, but it was not believed the course would be opened so soon.

IN SHORT TIME.

It is remarkable in what a short space of time a good grass green can be made. The soil is understood and the grass problem has been solved. A green in Florida in November will be ready to play over in early January which is a record for growing grass that any course in the country would envy.

Herbert Strong laid out another course at Vero, on the east coast, which was in a lot of fact a favorable comment. It will be opened this year. It would not be the proper thing to say in a favorable comment. Sebring and Mountain Lake. The last named course is deserving of special mention.

BOME LINKS.

It is the work of Seth Raynor and has but recently been made an eighteen-hole proposition. Those who knew of the increase in size remarked that if the second nine were half as good as the first nine, it would be a lot of links that would be as good as any in the country.

There are real hills at Mountain Lake and by using the natural advantages of the land and water it has been possible to build a course that is vastly different from any Florida links.

There is no hotel at Mountain Lake, but there is a clubhouse sufficient large to take care of the number of golfers during the season. It is mostly a winter home colony that supports the links.

FIND VARIETY.

Coming back north one can find variety in plenty. Sand greens prevail everywhere in the Carolinas and Georgia. There are no more delightful courses any place than one can find at Pinehurst. The fact that Pinehurst is always crowded is proof positive that sand greens are popular.

Many golfers never think of looking any further for their winter golf than this mecca. Pinehurst is a quarter of a century older than the mecca. During the last year another course has been opened which makes four in all and there is another project on foot to build a select club house and two more courses at Knollwood, half way between Pinehurst and Southern Pines.

The courses under the direction of Donald Ross are already under way and it is believed that there will be golf there next fall if not sooner. At any rate the winter tourists will find everything in readiness next season.

SANTA FE PLANS TO SPEND LARGE SUM.

Plans have been completed for the expenditure at once of about $150,000 in the improvement of the mechanical facilities of the Santa Fe, and this sum will be immediately available. H. E. Wall, mechanical superintendent of the Coast line of the railroad, announced yesterday at San Bernardino.

THREE-QUARTERS OF MILLION

FOR IMPROVEMENTS ON ITS COAST LINE.

Of this sum $500,000 will be spent in the shops there for enlargements and improvements—$250,000 in the locomotive department, an equal amount in the blacksmith department and the remaining $100,000 on the other shops. There will be $250,000 spent on other parts of the Coast line service.

Mr. Wall's headquarters are in Los Angeles, but at present he is in San Bernardino arranging for the improvements. He stated last night that the proposed improvements at San Bernardino will permit the shops there to turn out about thirty locomotives each month.

Bullet Wound
in Head Ends
Business Row.

In an altercation over business matters, A. Greenberg, aged 26, shot through the head and possibly fatally wounded Morris Goldberg, aged 32, in the latter's home at 1319 Warren street last night, according to a report filed at Boyle Heights Police Station by Lieut. Graham and Patrolman Thompson.

The officers arrested Greenberg who, they state, is now out on bail pending his trial in the Superior Court here on a grand larceny charge, and lodged him in the Boyle Heights station, fall on the charge of assault with the intent to kill.

Mr. Goldberg was rushed to the White Memorial Hospital. The attending surgeons stated that his condition is serious, the bullet having entered above the left ear and passed out through the right eye. The nature of the quarrel between the two men was not learned by the police.

IMPRESS SHORTBRIDGE

WITH HARBOR NEEDS.

SENATOR-ELECT ALSO SHOWN

INDUSTRIAL DISTRICT OF

LOS ANGELES.

Senator-elect Shortbridge spent yesterday afternoon in an inspection of the industrial district of Los Angeles, accompanied by a committee from the Chamber of Commerce. Earlier in the day he was taken through the Chamber of Commerce building by President Sylvester L. Weaver and was told of the situation of Los Angeles in relation to the overseas shipping by Marius de Barent, chairman of the chamber's committee on foreign trade and the harbor.

Today he will be the guest of the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce and will make an investigation into the needs and problems of Los Angeles Harbor, with particular reference to the expenditure of government money on its improvement. Wednesday he will meet with other groups interested in the advancement of this section. Thursday he will be the guest of honor at a banquet given by Republicans at the City Club. Friday morning he will go to San Diego, where he will stay until Sunday morning, when he will leave for Washington.

The Senator, who arrived Sunday from San Francisco, states that one of the first things America should do is to insist that Europe get to work.

"The primary concern of the men who represent the people of America must be America," he continued. "We can't trouble too much over the woes of Europe and too little over the burdens which rest upon our own people.

"We must protect our own people and preserve our own institutions and care first of all for those who need assistance within our own borders. Our farmers and manufacturers, our laborers and our commercial institutions must be protected against competition from the outside world, which seeks to drag us to the levels of social and economic, which obtain in less fortunate lands. Above all, the men who were maimed in defending the freedom of this land must be promptly, generously and adequately provided for."

Name August as Time for Market Week.

Los Angeles market week has been scheduled for August 8 to 12. At a meeting yesterday the Committee on Manufacturing of the Chamber of Commerce, together with industrial and commercial men of the city outlined further plans for the event which is to represent $300 local manufacturing plants, jobbers, wholesale dealers and exporters.

Various industries of the city will be demonstrated by placing exhibits in related groups. A. P. Osterloh is chairman of the general committee in charge of advertising and exhibit space. Individual displays will be assembled by trade associations of the city.

Invitations will be extended to buyers in the Orient, Mexico, Central and South America, and the Eastern States. Special entertainments are being planned for the guests and arrangements will be made whereby they may meet the business managers and officials of the industries in which they are interested.

Exhibitions will be placed in a single building if space can be found sufficiently large to house the huge display, for plans of the committee include products distributed in Los Angeles, as well as those manufactured here. The display will illustrate Los Angeles' position in the world market and industrial field to those who are familiar with the city as an agricultural district and tourist center.

WANT CITY HEADS TO CONSIDER JOB LACK.

Representatives from more than forty civic organizations of this city met last evening at the clubrooms of Victory Post, American Legion, to discuss the present labor problems. At the meeting, which was held at the call of Justice Follette, a committee was appointed to visit Mayor Snyder and the City Council and ask them to consider the situation. Among those present were C. A. Fuller, W. H. Harmon, Paul J. Natter, J. H. Baker and Chaplain L. C. Hodelson.

Why Not a Fire Proof Home

No matter how substantial—how fire-proof the walls—your house is still subject to the danger of wayward sparks without a fire-proof roof.

The Roof of Clay Tile

is absolutely impervious to flames. Flying sparks—the cause of most fires—cannot affect it. Heat, cold, and even Time, are defied by clay tile roofing, making it ultimately the most economical roofing. Is your house secure against fire tonight?

"THREE WISE FOOLS."

JOHN GOLDEN SENDS CAPITAL
PRODUCTION TO MASON.

By Edwin Schallert.

When all hope of having a No. 1 company in a play that can be human, plausible and exciting at once has vanished, along comes a real production out of a relentless East and everybody has a chance to register joy again. It took "Three Wise Fools" to accomplish the result this time. And if nothing else stands to John Golden's credit, he will be applauded long and earnestly for sending us so good a show in so dull a season of plays, as the comedy drama he presented last night at the Mason. The first-night audience that only assembles for things that are worth while was there to enjoy it, and they even broke the action with applause.

Austin Strong wrote the piece and, not satisfied with making sure that he was going to reach the hearts of his public through his humor and his pathos, he put in enough melodrama to satisfy the thrill seeker. His big situation comes in the second act, and he lets about nine tiger cats of crash-like excitement and emotion loose at once.

You may think that "Three Wise Fools" is about as fast as a Broadway street car at the start, but after you drag through the preliminaries it's a skip stop all the way to the destination, which you reach after several unexpected curves.

The comedy in the play arrives early and stays late, thanks to Claude Gillingwater in one of his classic character sketches. A real stage uncle properly humanized in what he portrays, and without Gillingwater's presence, it would be hard to imagine "Three Wise Fools."

Harry Davenport, as Dr. Richard Gaunt, and Howard Gould as Hon. James Trumbull, are the other members of the triumvirate of folly—the three bachelors who love the same girl in their youth, and who staunchly remained Athos, Porthos and Aramis to one another in their old age.

Hein Menken as Miss Fairchild, daughter of the bachelors' ideal, has a role of really exciting emotional demands. And Miss Menken does not scruple her tears, either. The electrical feeling she displays is marvelous in one of her fragile grace, although it is perhaps not natural for one of her type to give to her part so lavishly of nervous energy.

Donald Foster is clearly suited to the role of Gordon Schuyler, whose presence is necessary to the love interest. He plays the part with requisite naturalness, and without what you want from a burlesque comedy-drama in "Three Wise Fools," and you will enjoy a superlative cast.

MEIGHAN HEADS CAST

AT GRAUMAN THEATRE.

An inspiring title, a prince among actors and five reels of sentiment, humor and conventional melodrama—how many times have you seen "The Frontiers of the Stars?" No matter. You'll have another chance this week at Grauman's. The picture is "The Frontiers of the Stars," and Miss Meighan is its luminary, with Faure Binney the supporting principal. Meighan in the crowd-reformers, and Miss Binney appears in the role of the little cripple who is responsible for the reformation.

"The Frontiers of the Stars" is undoubtedly the kind of story that looks very well on paper. In fact, it would probably be considered up-lifting. Because you can put over a lot of fine "cover up" writing in literature that you can't manage at all on the screen.

The idea of the picture is sweet, pretty and all of that, and it could be written into a charming novelette, but psychological values are negative, and we have a feature that is in the main very trite and very obvious, with a thrill, and a highlight of attractive feeling here and there, but little else. And though you will stay until the end, because who would after a fashion, you wonder all the time how long it is going to last.

In contrast with comparing the Meighan of "The Miracle Man," and recalled those great scenes where Betty Compson as Rose put up her fight for the gangster's soul. But there is nothing like that in "The Frontiers of the Stars." The reformation is a milk-and-water affair, despite Meighan's vigorous effort to give it vitality.

Faure Binney looks pretty, but much of the time she appears to be trying to find something to do to make her part seem like a matter of duty it would be gratifying to hear a weekly change of repertoire, and without doubt the remainder of the audience feels the same.

"I Get Half," which the Broadway Follies presents this week, is Frank Samuels' conception of a matrimonial bureau with himself and Henry Sherr in charge. Norma Leslie makes a charming stenographer, Jackie Bruna and Rose Perfect are actresses in search of husbands. Minor Reed does a comedy female impersonation and "Bob" Albright is the hard-boiled brother of a sweet young thing whose money has been accepted by the "bureau" without tangible result.

Neal Hart appears in his recent picture, "Skyfire," a drama of the Canadian Northwest. The characters are Indians, whisky smugglers and a bunch of crooked cops. It's a popular in adventure film, with two sweet young things supplying the necessary contrast to the wild and woolly.

"Daddies' Appeal," the popular comedy which David Belasco produced for more than one year in New York, is attracting great favor at the Morosco Theater, where it is playing for the first time in the West.

Bertha Mann, Henry Duffey, Gayne Whitman and Heleine Sullivan all have important roles, and are supported by Iona May Howe, Joseph Eggerton, Harry Garrity, Rodney Hildebrand, Betty Page and others.

There are five children in the play and the situations they make for their "daddies" constitute one of the chief charms of the plot.

Frank Mayo's New One.

Having spent a short vacation hunting and fishing and taking an occasional underground trip into a friend's cellar, Frank Mayo is back at work on Universal lot, making a film version of "The Magnificent Brute" from Malcolm Stuart Boylan's story. Robert Thornby is directing.

Niles Welch Denies.

Niles Welch, supporting Priscilla Dean in her Universal picture, "False Colors," directed by Stuart Paton has denied that widely circulated report that he has been signed by "U" for three years. He prefers to freelance.

Eddie Polo Hero Soon.

Though he hates to leave Cuba's hospitable shores, he says, nevertheless Eddy Polo, king of the black-and-blue drama over at Universal, is saying good-by to that delectable clime to come back to California. He went to Cuba—at least that was his object—to make "The Seal of Satan," a "U" serial. Many of the dramatic scenes were filmed at Morro Castle, San Juan Hill and other historically romantic points on the island. J. P. McGowan directed.

Katherine MacDonald Well.

After being on the sick list for nearly three weeks, Katherine MacDonald has returned to her studio to complete her current First National picture, "The Frontiers of the Stars," which is still playing. Miss MacDonald is still playing. Miss MacDonald is still playing. Miss MacDonald is still playing.

Allan Dwan Gets Busy.

Allan Dwan has just purchased the rights to two new screen stories and will commence work on one of them next week. At present he is putting the story, which is one from the Saturday Evening Post, into continuity, and casting his players.

Carr Cousins Laugh as Mob Yells.

HILL RETREAT'S FAR FROM ROAD

Kidnapers Had Fine View of All Approaches.

Had Rented House in Corona, but Never Used It.

Meager Furnishings Partly Paid for Recently.

The house in which Mr. Withersell was held captive is ideal for the purpose of kidnapers. It is situated a quarter of a mile from the Riverside-Corona road and the Santa Fe tracks and can be approached only by a long detour. Screams or unusual noises could not be heard by passers-by.

From the windows of the house the entire length of La Sierra Heights can be observed. The State highway can be seen for miles and were a person watching from the house, pedestrians and machines could be seen in ample time to permit the occupants of the house to escape unobserved through the rear-strawn hills.

Nine weeks ago the Carrs rented a house on Eighth street, Corona, and paid a month's rent. They never occupied this place. Two months ago they rented the foot-hill house from Roy Cross, a rancher, but never lived in this until the night before the kidnapping.

From a Corona furniture dealer, the pair purchased $110 worth of household goods, paying $50 cash. Of the goods purchased, the house now contains two cheap iron beds, four chairs, a dresser, a table, an oil heater, a very few dishes, a deck of cards, a cribbage board and three cans of beans.

In Mrs. Withersell's room a few dirty clothes are heaped upon the bed, two pairs of blankets and a comforter having been her only protection from the cold. At the foot of the bed lay a rag used in the her hands in order to keep her quiet. The only other articles in Mrs. Withersell's room were the small oil heater, which the Carrs had cooked, a rocking chair, a straight chair used as a cooking table, and a tin can in which water was heated.

In the kitchen was a roughly-constructed table, a chair, a dresser, two cupboards, a bench, a sink and a few dishes. The "front" room of the house was devoid of all furnishings. Carr's room contained a true bedstead similar to Mrs. Withersell's, a chair and a few pieces of clothing. Carr's room was in the closet of this room that Carr was found. A bathroom, in which there was nothing but a tub, connects the room of Mrs. Withersell and Carr. The structure has never been finished, and building material is still stacked about the premises.

CAPTOR OF CARR TELLS OF ARREST.

Afraid to Shoot, He Faces Kidnapers and Forces Him to Give Up Gun.

By Police Sgt. Alfred T. Slater. Former Captain A.E.F.

A thin board one-half of an inch thick is what saved Floyd Lee Carr, the kidnapers, from being blown to pieces with the No. 9 buckshot with which my sawed-off shotgun was loaded when I first discovered him hidden away in a closet in his shack in the Corona foothills.

I could not fire because my shot would without a doubt have pierced the thin board and killed some of my brother-officers in the room. My command for him to drop his revolver, which he had pointed at my middle, was heeded and I guess the very fact that I showed no fear saved my life.

The fact that it was I who captured Carr was only because I stepped into his bedroom first. The bed was empty, but when I placed my hand among the bedding I found that of warm. I tore open the bed cover and same face to face with Carr and also with a .45-caliber revolver.

I guess my twenty-three months in the United States Army as a captain and the service I saw in France had something to do with my actions after I saw Carr and his revolver. It flashed through my mind that Carr might at any moment fire the shot that would send me "West" without a quaver in my voice. Although fearing that I would be compelled to shoot, I ordered him to drop his gun. For a second he looked me in the eye and then the revolver fell to the floor.

Gray-Haired Kidnapers Roused from Sleep During Yesterday's Hearing.

While Arthur (Jack) Carr was telling the story that spelled the end of his career, Floyd Carr fell asleep in Justice Hinshaw's court yesterday.

The younger Carr was sitting on the stand. Floyd was sitting at the table and women crowded into the room. There were whispers of lynching. The gray-haired man's chin fell on his chest and he was sound asleep. He remained that way for a few minutes. Then a poke in the ribs awakened him. He opened his eyes, pulled himself together and sat still.

DOUBT TALE OF THIRD PERSON.

Floyd Carr, driving his own machine, trailed them. The route followed was through Downey, Norwalk, Buena Park, Fullerton, Placentia and on up through Santa Ana Canyon.

When they got well up into the Santa Ana Mountains, Carr told her that the Carrs were loose and that she had slipped her hands out of the nooses of machine with which she had been bound.

Like Sick Sister. Mrs. Withersell, upon being assured by Carr that her abductors would treat her just like his sister, who was sick, agreed not to jump out of the machine.

Before they reached the Carr house, Mrs. Withersell asked Carr what the sum first named was what they wanted of her. Carr told her it was $50,000. Carr told her that he was not a kidnaper, but a man who was being forced to do so.

Another letter was mailed by Carr on Friday. This, in an envelope addressed by Mrs. Withersell, was sent to her husband's office address.

Arthur Carr said he did not leave the ranch from the time he arrived there Tuesday night with his prisoner until about 7:30 Sunday night. Floyd had started to the city with a third letter to Withersell, instructing him to leave $20,000 near a red light which he would see Monday night some place on the Valley Boulevard between Los Angeles and Pomona, and that his wife would be returned to him within ten hours thereafter.

Floyd was slightly hurt in a smashup to his machine, however, and returned to the ranch house, and then Arthur Carr started with the letter which he mailed at 10:10 o'clock Sunday evening, at the post-office building, and then went to the drug store where he was arrested.

The examination of Floyd Carr was exceedingly brief. He corroborated in every detail all of the statements made by his cousin, and merely asked for such leniency as might be possible. Bail of each of the men was fixed at $50,000.

Credit for Capture. Credit for the capture of Jack and Floyd Carr, partners in kidnaping plots, is due chiefly to unflinching, strenuous and systematic investigation carried on by five men.

These five men are Nick Harris, head of the detective agency bearing his name and who assumed charge of the kidnaping detail; Detective Sergeant Louis Oaks and Edward King, veteran members of the Central Station detective bureau and two of the ablest men in the department.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Lips and Andrew Anderson, two of the oldest and ablest members of the Sheriff's forces.

Intended to roll her in a blanket and then bind her tightly so that she could not use either her arms or legs, he said, but Mrs. Withersell pleaded that such treatment would drive her into hysterics, so Carr merely nailed shut the windows and the door leading into the back room. The other door, leading into the bathroom and so on into the room in which he slept, was left standing open.

Carr cooked the first breakfast, but Mrs. Withersell would take nothing but a cup of coffee and some cookies.

Mrs. Withersell occasionally became depressed and was afraid she would never see her home again, the witness said, but was always assured that she would be taken home safe and sound. Carr denied having made any threats to get her to write appealing notes to her husband.

Milk For Men of Brawn

It Gives Steady Nerves and Strong Muscles

A vital necessity to the normal growth of children, an excellent supplementary food for the business man, milk is also an essential for the man of brawn.

Professor McCollum of Johns Hopkins University, world famous authority on dietetic properties of milk, says—"Milk contains all the elements and compounds essential for the nutrition of the body."

Milk for the Noon-Day Lunch

Because of its highly nutritive and appetizing qualities, milk finds its natural place in the lunch boxes of thousands of workmen. The Thermos bottles supplies it refreshingly cool in summer, or if you wish, gratifyingly hot in winter. Its muscle building and nerve steadying properties make it a popular and a sensible substitute for beverages which are merely stimulating and which possess little or no food value. There is no substitute for fresh, wholesome milk. Drink more milk.

THE COST OF MILK

The average life of a cow is 6-7 years. For 2 years of this time she does not produce milk. If any trace of disease develops she is condemned, with heavy loss to the dairyman. Thus high-priced cattle add to the other costs of the production of high-grade milk.

How Four Phone Girls Drew
Net Shut on Pair.

That police detectives, deputy sheriffs and Nick Harris detectives worked in three teams and established a tapped-telephone triangle in order to capture the kidnapers of Mrs. Gladys Witherell was explained last night by Nick Harris, who followed the investigation throughout.

After holding two conferences, according to Mr. Harris, three searching parties, each consisting of a deputy sheriff, a police officer and a Nick Harris operator, laid their trap by sending Mrs. Witherell a fake note demanding $50,000 ransom. This was intended to confuse the kidnapers and draw them into early communication with the family.

Two extensions were placed on the Witherell residence phone, one reaching to the residence of Mrs. Witherell's father, and the other to the home of Dr. James Fendon, a neighbor. This established the triangle. Detectives took up their watches at these telephones and left them only as shifts changed from day to day. Among those who assisted in the detail were Deputy Sheriffs Lips and Anderson, Detective Sergeants Oaks and King, Nick Harris and Detectives Brown and Morgan from his office.

"All day and night from Thursday to Sunday we remained at our posts," said Detective Harris last night, "until the Witherell residence was called by one of the kidnapers at 10:35 p.m., Sunday. The officers at the Witherell residence then listened in on the conversation of the kidnapers. In the meantime the chief operator called me at Fendon's and told me the kidnapers were talking from a drug store at 200 East Fifth street. I knew it was impossible to reach there from Hollywood in time to make a catch so, as the operator had been previously instructed, she notified Central Station and Detective Sergeants Kahlmeyer and Stolzriede responded. Kahlmeyer personally made the arrest. As to what has happened since then, that is known."

The detailed story of how the telephone operators trapped Carr was related yesterday to the Times by Mrs. Alma Bryant, of 4421 Odine street, Hollywood, night chief operator of the Hollywood exchange, under whose direction the fast work was carried out.

"We came on duty Sunday night and were told by the day force of the arrangements in the watching of the wires. Hundreds in Hollywood were searching the hills, and we talked it over, saying we hoped we could do something," Mrs. Bryant said.

"At 10:35 p.m., Miss Bertha Heere of 1032 South New Hampshire street, received a call for Mr. Witherell's residence. She listened in long enough to hear the man on the downstown end of the line ask for O. S. Witherell and say, 'This is the man who's got your wife.' Then she called me."

"Working in prearranged manner, I got Miss George Pond, who lives at 8222 Santa Monica boulevard, call information and told her to hold the line and be ready to give us location of a number as soon as possible. Miss Bertha Sheffer, of 613 1/2 Sunset boulevard, got the detective bureau and told the officer there that a call was being made by the kidnapers, and that she would let him know from where the man was talking as soon as possible, asking him to stay on the line. Miss Heere in the meantime got Chief Operator Moore at the main exchange and had her trace the call there. The main exchange said the call was being made from Main 1691. As I repeated the number, Miss Pond shouted it to the information operator, who immediately gave her the location. As to Z. G. store, 200 East Fifth, Miss Pond repeated this aloud and Miss Sheffer repeated this to the police headquarters. We did not get excited till it was all over. The girls worked like a team and not a second was lost. We listened and the conversation and heard the man hang up the receiver without completing what he had to say. Then we knew he was caught."

WOMAN'S STORY OF KIDNAPING.

I began to get a gag in my mouth, and kept the gag from going in. I don't remember that he was trying to hold me, but I pulled my hands up so that when he tied them to my feet I had slack in the rope. The drug store man, my brain, and I forgot everything.

"When I recovered, there was a gag in my mouth, I smelled chloroform, and the robe was tied over me. My belt was strapped around me. I could breathe and I heard them talking.

"Is she dead, will she come out?" Jack was asking the gray-haired man.

"Yes, she's alive, she'll be all right. I feel her pulse beating. Jim replied. We ought to have some aromatic spirits of ammonia, to bring her out," said Jack. "Oh, that's all right. She is alive," said the other. I lay still.

"Then they got me to Huntington Park. I was semiconscious. I knew what was going on, but felt like I was paralyzed. They tied me securely and put more chloroform on the gag. Jack then tied me into the car and the other man, got into another automobile, and they drove over the roads."

The young mother stopped her recital for a moment. Downstairs her baby Jack and his grandfather, A. J. Witherell were playing. The baby's voice rang out with laughter. As she turned in bed the young woman winced with pain. Her right arm was black and blue with bruises.

"After we left Huntington Park I got some air through the opening in the folds of the robe. Out on the road they talked to me. They told me they would have to chloroform me again if I fought out with any law men. 'All we want is money,' they told me. 'So still and we will not harm you.' 'Are you sure you want money? You are not going to cut me up like you did that poor woman in Edendale,' I asked, and they said, 'No,

Mrs. Alma Bryant,

Chief night operator on the Hollywood telephone board, who, with three of her assistants, made possible the capture of the kidnapers.

Money we want, and money we'll get. We will not hurt you." The mountains showed on both sides. Mrs. Witherell said, and the grade and turns made her think they were going over the Ridge Route. They passed some trucks at some men walking on the road. She made no further attempts to call for help.

AT THE RANCH.

"They carried me out of the car when we got to the ranch, and dumped me on the bed," Mrs. Witherell said. "Jim lit an oil stove. 'Well, treat you like a sister,' he said. 'If some one treated your sister like that, what would you do?' I asked him. 'We are forced to do this,' he replied. 'Don't be afraid; we want money. That all,' Jack added."

"It was about 11 o'clock when we got to the ranch. Then they told me they kidnaped me for money. They said they wanted $50,000. I told them there wasn't that much money in our family. 'Never you mind, leave that to us, maybe your daddy will come across.' 'But daddy hasn't got that much, either, I told them. I told them how O. S.—that's my husband—and I went through school together, how we were sweethearts, and how we were building up our home. We talked late and they told me of their plans to get the ransom."

"That night Floyd—I later heard Jack call the gray-haired man that—went back to town. They lit a lamp and filled the oil stove for me. The blankets were filthy but the mattress was new. The furniture was new, it had price tags on it. Just before Floyd went to town he told me they had kidnaped two others before. 'When people are in trouble the family will come through with money,' he said. 'Don't you worry. They'll use us of struggling. We want the money and we will take you back home when we get it.' They left the stove burning and after Floyd went away, Jack unlocked my door and went to sleep."

"I did not close my eyes all night long. I thought it all over, and after a fashion I became a little calmer. Next morning Floyd returned. He brought the papers to read. In the morning Jack came in and asked what I wanted for breakfast. They gave me some coffee and bread and butter."

In the morning her body was a mass of bruises. Her neck was swollen twice its size. Her legs were swollen and the chest was bruised and sore, she said. "I believe both men were catapaths. They knew every bone in the human body. Floyd said he could relieve my pain, and he massaged my neck, getting the swelling down. Then he said he would treat my nervous system. He generally seemed to know how to do it. I was soothed and quieted down, and the swelling and pain was gone somewhat. Floyd brought some bandages and some ungenuine for my bruises. They told me that I could write, if I wanted to."

"I washed the dishes the first day, and swept the room. It was filthy. There were cigarette butts all over the place. Both men were good cooks. They cooked big planked steaks for her, she said, and the best griddle cakes she ever ate. 'They taught me how to play cribbage. They would not let me work.'"

The day before the rescue the men talked over the reward. They said that they might take the ransom if they could not get the reward. 'We'll take the reward and let the boss go with nothing,' they said. Later, Mrs. Witherell said, about the "boss" was bunk. I caught them at it when Jack let it slip that Floyd was out writing a note. 'Previously they told me the boss was writing all the notes.'

"Yesterday I had a feeling that something was going to happen. Floyd got ready to go to town. He got the note, after she added her own remarks to it, and left in the car. Floyd left at 8:45. A few hours later he heard a car drive up. I became frightened, and rushed into the corner of the room. It was only Floyd. He limped in and said he had had an accident and wrenched his back. The car ran into something, and Jack would have to go to town instead. He gave Jack all the instructions and Jack left. Floyd sat on the edge of the bed and talked to me. He told me he thought I was a wonderful girl, had lots of nerve and all that. He said he had a whistle and a car stopped. I called Floyd three times. I thought the 'gang' had come, and felt my mind going insane. There were voices, and then I heard Floyd loading the automobile. I heard Jack's voice, and then all was a mad jumble of sounds."

Here follows a description of the rescue by Warden Woolard, one of the Times men with the posse: WHAT HAPPENED.

"Lambert! Lambert!" With these two words, cried out in her prison room in the mountains yesterday morning, Mrs. Witherell suggested her husband after her five days of captivity in the kidnapers' hideout, hidden among desolate hills near Corona, more than sixty-five miles from her home and baby.

rescuers were only new tormentors, he seized her in his arms, lifted her by her feet and held her in an embrace that seemed to defy another parting.

It was a scene such as none of the veteran officers, called upon as they are to displays of human emotion under all kinds of stress, had ever witnessed before. Worn by the sleepless days and nights of search and overjoy that they had been able to find Mrs. Witherell unharmed, the officers to a man bowed their heads in the presence of the young reunited couple.

"Oh, is it you? Is it really you?" Can it be you?" sobbed the woman as her upturned face was kissed. Stopping to the bed where she was cowering in hysterical fear that her again and again by her husband. Then through the door came A. J. Witherell, father of the young man, rushing eagerly into the room that was lighted only by the moving flashlights of the officers.

"Did they harm you? Sweetheart, did they touch you?" TREASURED WELL. And all breaths were held the determined men who had just faced death for her sake might catch the answer. "No," almost moaned the young mother. "No, they treated me as nice as they could, but I want home—home and baby."

"They treated me good, only they wouldn't let me go. Look," she replied reaching for a slipper under the bed, "they even bought me a new pair of shoes. You see I lost one of my own shoes in the fight coming out here. And they bought me a new curling iron, too."

In the almost barren room, containing only a bed covered with dirty, smelly blankets, a straight-backed chair and an oil heater, her curling iron was the only toilet article to be seen. They even gave me the newspapers to read," she continued. "My baby was here with me, don't you see?"

From beneath the blankets, she produced a newspaper containing a picture of her son and exhibited it with a fine spirit of humor. As if the picture of his baby again called to mind the horror of the crime, the younger Mr. Witherell whirled toward the officers, demanding, "Did they get the second man? Where is he?"

Scarcely waiting for a reply from Deputy Sheriff Anderson, who had just left Floyd (Jim) Carr in an adjoining room, Mr. Witherell rushed from the bedroom and strode up to the second prisoner caught in the night's round-up. Pushing aside the officers surrounding the man who did the actual kidnaping, Mr. Witherell moved to within a few inches of the captive, who stood handcuffed and dejected against a window casing. Dawn was just creeping over the hills and in the hazy light, contrasting weirdly with the phantasmic, intermittent gleams from the officers' flashlights, he peered intently at the man who caused his many hours of anguish.

Barker Bros.' 41st Annual Clearance Answers the Furniture-Buyer's "Where" and "When"

It is only logical and entirely obvious that the place which gives the greatest amount of satisfaction to the buyers of furniture and home furnishings is the place where the ASSORTMENTS are the largest and most complete and where the QUALITY goes without saying.

So, to those who have any doubts as to the place where they shall buy their furniture, "Barker Bros." with its thirty-three sales display floors of superior home-furnishing merchandise, is the answer.

And to those who have been waiting for furniture prices to reach a standard level before making their purchases, the Forty-first Annual Clearance now in progress at Barker Bros. answers, most certainly and emphatically, "NOW is the time to buy!"

The proof of this answer is in the hundreds and thousands of phenomenal values which the Clearance has imposed throughout the store.

A Gratifying Collection of Bedroom Furniture Values

Home-makers with sleeping-rooms to furnish or re-furnish are exceptionally fortunate considering that Barker Bros.' clearance embraces our entire stock of Bedroom Furniture. Some idea of the importance of the values in this section may be gained from the few examples following:

Dressing Tables, in mahogany finish	$57.50	Mahogany four-post Beds, in full or twin sizes	$75.00 and $67.50
Ivory enamel Chiffonier with mirror back	$32.50	Upholstered Benches	$17.50
Solid Mahogany Day Beds, complete with box springs	$75	Odd Chiffoniers	$147.50

Mattresses of Barker Bros.' Own Make in the Clearance

Three models of Barker Bros.' Own Make Mattresses, filled with white staple cotton, have been re-marked at prices which are extremely low for mattresses of this superior quality. White staple cotton is a high-grade mattress filling. It should not be confused with ordinary cotton fillings. Mattresses made from this filling are exceptionally resilient and durable.

50-lb. Special Stitched Edge Mattress	$32.50
45-lb. Imperial Edge Mattress	$27.00
40-lb. Imperial Edge Mattress	$23.00

All of these mattresses are made with Barker Bros.' new "Non-spread-tuf" feature, which doubly reinforces the tufting and prevents spreading.

SEWAGE STARTS
HOT WORD FIRE.

City Will be Mired in Three Years, Speaker Says.

Verbal Tilt Follows as Club Members Listen Eagerly.

Sculptress Chosen to Design War Memorial Fountain.

BY MYRA NYE.

Crash! Bang! The fight was transferred from the Men's City Club yesterday. The fight was not for the trenches. It was over the sewer. It took four hours for the men to raise their barrage of words. The women took an hour and one minute to do the same. It was not while it lasted.

Mildly enough at first, Willis T. Knowlton of the City Engineer's staff, began, per arrangement on "The Necessity for an Outfall Sewer for Los Angeles." He had not gone far before everyone in the room was convinced the city will be mired in three years if some sewer system is not provided. That much was graphically and grossly clear. It was also clear to me that Hermosa, Redondo and Manhattan beaches will all lose their pristine loveliness if the change is not made at once. But how?

In deciding how, the tie was hung, contradictions flashed through the air and challenges red, hot issued from City Engineer Griffin from the floor to R. W. Haddon on the platform. Mr. Haddon was arguing for the sale of the sewer for fertilizer and Mr. Griffin was opposing him with the proposition for a new sewer system that shall have its outfall in the ocean.

Through the ever constant are between these two men sounded intermittently the question-argument of Mrs. Martha Law, Mrs. John Meyer, Mrs. G. F. Atchley, Mrs. Chester Ashley and others. Mrs. Herman Darling's gavel was an effective bomb falling at necessary intervals.

As for the opposing leaders among the men, if continued smiles are the most effective weapons, Mr. Haddon won. If intense feeling, accompanied by convincing figures and well compiled facts mean anything, Mr. Griffin was the winner.

Ebell Club. "Our Soldier Poets of the New Awakening" was the subject of Edmund Russell's talk yesterday before the Ebell Club. Mr. Russell has returned to America after spending the whole period of the war and some of the postwar days in looking after the men on the other side. He was, therefore, most sympathetic in his interpretation of Robert Service, the soldier poet. He read from his works, "The Coward," and "Fleur-de-lis."

Mrs. Frederick Dow of Chicago, past president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, speaking as a representative of the seventh congressional district in the thrifty campaign, urged the women to "carry on" in their.

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the Ebell Club, announced that Mrs. Julia Bracken Wendt had been chosen to design the war memorial fountain for which $2100 was subscribed in fifteen minutes a week ago.

Mrs. Wendt will be one of the luncheon speakers together with Mr. Preston Harrison, whose picture are being exhibited this month in the club-house, at the art and travel luncheon February 19. Superb flowers will speak next Monday on "Our Next Job," and Theodore Maynard on "The Imminent Breakup of Civilization."

FOR RABBIT FANCIERS.

Giant Animals to be Shown at Local Show, Manager Says.

Progress in breeding rabbits for size, a work in which Southern California breeders excel, will be noted at the seventh annual championship show of the Southern California Rabbit and Pet Stock Association at 1225 South Main street, February 3 to 7, inclusive.

J. T. Jenkins, manager of the show, stated yesterday that rabbits weighing from twenty to twenty-two pounds will be seen at the show, which will feature more cups and prizes offered than at any other show ever held in the Southwest. R. R. Howland, who last year exhibited the largest rabbit ever judged, one weighing twenty-one and a half pounds, will enter several of his Flemish Giants. Several rabbit fur farms in Southern California will enter animals.

"MISSING" FILM
MAN IS FOUND.

Disappearance Tale is Called Ridiculous by Him.

Says He's been in Constant Touch with Friends.

Leaves for East to Wind Up Affairs and Come Back.

Characterizing as ridiculous the report from the East that he had mysteriously disappeared, Capt. Frederick F. Stoll, president of the United States Photoplay Corporation, declared yesterday, just before leaving for the East, that he has been in constant communication with the officials of the picture corporation, and was surprised to hear that he had disappeared. He said he had telegraphed the officials of the company early yesterday morning for information regarding his disappearance. He left last night for New York. Capt. Stoll stated that he will stop off few days in Chicago to visit his mother, who lives there.

Word was received from New York Sunday that Capt. Stoll had been missing since last December, and that the directors of the company had met for the purpose of choosing his successor as president. Capt. Stoll declared yesterday that this procedure is impossible. He says the constitution of the photoplay corporation provides that a director must be absent from three consecutive meetings before he can be dismissed from the directorate and that he owns 52 per cent of the stock of the corporation.

Capt. Stoll said he has been at the Murrieta Hot Springs for the past three weeks, and since last Tuesday has been back in this city. He said he has not been trying to hide and while at Murrieta wrote postal cards and letters to many of his friends, among whom were the secretary and attorney of the film corporation. The captain stated that he had come to Los Angeles for the purpose of securing data regarding the practicability of erecting a motion-picture studio in this city, and that his company will be moved to this city, as soon as the lease on the studio in New York City expires.

GOT LEGAL ADVICE TO HOLD FEES.

Lawyers Testify for Cline and Manning Tells Reasons for Extra Deputies.

Testimony was produced yesterday in the ouster suit of Sheriff Cline before Judge Monroe, that the Sheriff acted under legal advice when he refused to report per diem fees collected by him to the County Auditor. He also acted under legal advice in making appointments of deputy sheriffs serving without pay.

George Greer and Genser Williams both testified that they had advised Sheriff Cline along these lines. When the Supreme Court decision hearing in the fee suit, Mr. Williams testified, the Sheriff asked him what he should do about the collection of fees passing through him to the Auditor.

"I told him I thought it was impossible for him to do it; it was beyond his duty," said Mr. Williams. Under Sheriff Al Manning testified that a great many special deputy sheriffs were appointed, and explained that the reasons were, the fear, the street railway strike and for duty in San Pedro.

The Sheriff was accused of appointing many hundreds of these special deputy sheriffs above the authorized number; he is also accused of refusing to turn in his per diem fees, contrary to law.

ASK COURT TO STOP
BUILDING REMOVAL.

Edward R. Maier and John F. Powers filed suit yesterday against the Motion Picture Pictures Corporation to restrain it from moving a building at Washington and Main streets, on the ground that the building is a portion of the real estate. The plaintiffs are lessees of Washington Park and adjacent property.
